- TM Hagenbarth opened the discussion on the Killington Search and Rescue Letter that was submitted to the Mountain Times. Current and past members of Killington Search and Rescue penned a letter stating they had no confidence in Chief LaHart and requested to be separated from the existing Fire Department and to work independently. TM Hagenbarth explained that as Chief LaHart began working, the Town has started ensuring they are meeting all requirements for training certifications due to safety and liability concerns. Chief LaHart has asked for certifications and has either not received or received incomplete certifications. Due to risks related to equipment, Chief LaHart decided to temporarily suspend KSAR operations until the certifications were either verified or brought up to standards. The City of Rutland and the Rutland Search and Rescue Team were invited and conducted a review of KSAR and concluded that KSAR was in a “noncompliance with the NFPA 1670 and 1006 standards for organizational or individual training requirements.”

- TM Hagenbarth acknowledge that KSAR would like to split from the Fire Department and work independently however, if the Town manages KSAR, it must either remain under the oversight of the Fire Department or the Police Department as it will be under the Town’s insurance and could create liability issues.
- An open discussion was held with Selectboard members, current and past KSAR members, and citizens about KSAR’s letter.
